Chimney Tray Liquid Collectors

Also called: Lift pipe liquid collector · Draw-off tray

A chimney-type collector that gathers liquid and lets you draw it off from the column.

What is it? A tray between two packed beds that collects the liquid and lets it be drawn out of the column, while the gas rises through pipes ("chimneys").

Key Features

- Strip-shaped risers: large open area, low gas resistance
- Branch troughs slope to the centre, so no liquid is left standing
- Resists gas surges and thermal expansion
- Easy to install on site

Applications

- Packed columns with liquid draw-off
