Trough Liquid Distributors

Also called: Liquid distributor · Packed column distributor

A widely used distributor that spreads liquid evenly over the packing and is easy to install.

What is it? A set of open channels above the packing. Liquid fills the channels and flows out evenly through notches, so the whole packing is wetted evenly.

Key Features

- Easy to install and level
- Point-to-point error below 5%
- High spray-point density, little entrainment
- Very low pressure drop, large operating flexibility

Applications

- Packed columns
